STATE TO ENFORCE TRAFFIC LAWS

CALLS ATTENTION TO SEVEN IMPORTANT FEATURES TO BE OBEYED.

Lansing, Sept. 29.—Believing that motorists of Michigan have been given sufficient time to thoroughly acquaint themselves with the new automobile laws, the uniform traffic law passed by the last legislature, the state police are now enforcing automobile laws. Secretary of State Charles DeLand has issued letters to all peace officers and to the state police as well, calling their attention to the fact that the uniform traffic law is in effect and that they would be expected to enforce it and the old automobile laws as well.

The principal violations of these laws upon which the state police have been called to make recent arrests are:

Failing to keep automobile license tags properly hung.

Failing to have parking lights burning and failing to dim headlights upon the approach of another vehicle.

Failing to extend arm upon turning or halting a machine.

Failing to come to a complete stop upon approaching any main state trunk line.

Failing to stop behind stopped street cars or other passenger carrying vehicles.

Parking on the public highway.

In Jackson recently 80 motorists were arrested on charges of violating the automobile laws in a single day. Every motorist well knows the speed limit allowed on state highways of Michigan, which is 35 miles per hour. There is a provision in the state law which says that automobile license tags must be fastened in a conspicuous place, front and rear. Many drivers are being hauled into court for having them concealed behind bumpers or for allowing them to become mud bespattered so they cannot be readily read.

The People vs. Bernard J. Callahan, violation of the prohibition law.

At any time an automobile is stopped on a road, trunk line or county, the law says that a white light must show from the front and a red light from the rear. This provision of the law permits the use of what is termed a "parking light" or one light with white front and red glass rear.

The uniform traffic law says that the driver of an automobile upon making a right or left turn, or upon coming to a complete stop, or upon slowing down must extend his arm to warn machines approaching from the rear. The state police have approved a system of signals as follows:

Arm pointing skyward to denote a right turn; arm extended horizontally to denote a left turn; arm pointing toward the road to denote a stop or slowing down. This same system of signalling has been adopted and approved by police departments of a number of cities.

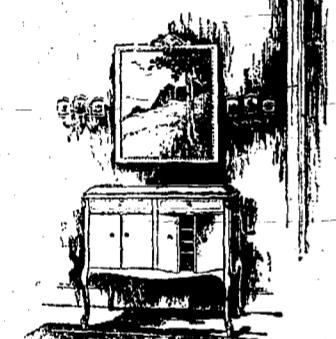

Another feature of this same law is the section making it compulsory to stop while approaching a state trunk line, the automobile on the trunk line having the right of way.

On practically every main road in the state there is sufficient "shoulder" or unused part of the road to the side of the beaten path, where a motorist can stop his machine to make an adjustment, repair a tire, etc. Failure to pull the machine to one side is a violation of this section.

THE STORY THUS FAR

SYNOPSIS. On the isolated Meager ranch, on the southern border Deborah Meager, trained nurse, is in attendance on Mrs. Meager, whose husband has recently been killed. Immediately after the death, Bob Meager, Mrs. Meager's stepson, arrives, and the two powerfully built Meagers and she resolve to leave, but there seems no possibility of her getting away. Meager shoots over Deborah's plight. He tells her he has sent for a justice of the peace, who will marry them tomorrow. He has the gun, a six-shooter revolver. The justice, Cornelius Garrity, accosted and bosom friend of Meager, arrives with a party, among them the "Frisco Kid," notorious desperado. Despite Deborah's protests, the justice performs the marriage ceremony, sealing their union with a kiss. There she stays Meager with the revolver and rushes to the stable, hoping to secure a horse and escape. There she meets the "Frisco Kid." Some how he inspires her with confidence and she explains their situation to him. "Who is he?" asks his name is Daniel Kelleen, that he is no friend of Meager. They ride off together into the desert. Presently she realizes that Kelleen is the "Frisco Kid" but doesn't fear him. Deborah hears the story of the "Frisco Kid." Kelleen disappears and Deborah is seized by a man who carries her to what is apparently a cave.

Deborah's searching eyes, now able to distinguish objects with some clearness, scanned the rock walls to the obscured entrance. At first she could not be sure, but finally the vague outline of the man seated on the rock became visible. He was huddled forward in such grotesque posture as scarcely to appear human, but gradually the girl realized what the unusual shape must be, could even detect the long, scraggly hair, the great breadth of shoulders, and the rifle on which he leaned. With this discovery came the instant assurance also that the fellow slept soundly. A thrill of hope brought courage, and new strength to her limbs. Might it not be possible for her to steal forward silently, and then, with a sudden spring, clear the obstruction of vines, and gain the free way without, before the slumbering guard could even comprehend what had occurred? The hide was not a hundred yards away, and even if she had to leap bodily from off the shelf of rock, she would willingly dare all for a chance at escape. Yet she had not advanced three steps until she realized the impossibility of the effort, the sleeping body utterly blocking the passage of withdrawal at a sharp angle.

She could perceive the fellow now with some distinctness, a giant of a man, with long, upturned arms, bare and hairy, an oddly formed head, at most pear-shaped, long hair streaming the face, and a black beard sweeping to his knees. Slowly, silent, without actually knowing why, the girl drew back into the deeper darkness behind her, guiding herself with one hand against the rough wall, into her mind laid under the fluid, hope of another escape somewhere, the very purity of the air suggesting such a possibility; she even imagining she felt a draft upon her cheek. Yet there was no gust of light. Once her ground foot struck against something, and a brief gleam where she fell. She lay down parting to assume herself of the obstruction, and the exploring fingers touched a pile. It was a mine, that's this secret excavation had been men's work! Nature may have pointed the way, but this tunnel itself originated through lust of wealth. Her captors were not outlaws but men crazed by fear of losing what they had uncovered in these rocky hills. Yet this knowledge rendered her situation no whit less dangerous.

Deborah stood frozen over the pile of debris discovering that this rift of stone did not denote the ending of the passage. Suddenly her groping hands reentered a chair curvature in the tunnel, and she worked her way along the corner with utmost caution. Then she stopped, noted to the spot, she had no question as to where she had to go in the outer cave. She must have seen her outstretched hand against that round opening above. It was a miracle she had escaped; but to have seen her the fellow must have stood directly beneath, beside the body of the dead man. Perhaps he would be there still, peering up to learn the result of his shot, wondering where he had disappeared so quickly. She was safe enough where she was, but she must have been to the head. Far above, up what appeared to be sharply inclined slope through the solid rock, came streaming down a ray of light of daylight, its faint reflection resting directly upon the unbroken face of a dead man, stretched on the tunnel floor.

Deborah started, swayed back against the wall for support, staring down into that white, unturned face, clearly revealed within the little pool of light. It was the face of a young man, his dark, wide-open eyes staring blindly up into vacancy, his brown hair cut short, almost good-looking even in death, with cheeks freshly shaven. This last was what aroused the girl, brought her back quickly to life and action. He had the appearance of having shaved that very morning; the stubble of his beard was not even visible. Then she noted two other facts—his revolver was in the holster at his waist, and the hand, held up right against the side wall, grasped a folded paper. He had just been killed, not more than two hours before, surely, and in no time—perhaps he had fallen to where he lay while climbing that narrow passage above. But the wound? There was none visible—not even a bruise on the face. As a woman, Deborah shrank from touching the body, but her training as a nurse instantly conquered. She must learn the truth, disagreeable as the task might be. On her knees, exerting all her strength, she partially turned the body—the man had been shot in the back.

She was the first man to bring a writing machine to the point where a manufacturer could take it up, and 1873 is regarded as the birth year of the typewriter, bearing some time in April of that year a contract was made body over the rim of rock. Utterly exhausted, Deborah lay on the sand, gasping for breath, conscious only that she had found refuge in a shallow ravine. She lay there outstretched in the shadow of a steep bank, without strength even to lift her head.

CHAPTER XI

More Complications.

Deborah felt that she never would regain power to rise, yet this total exhaustion passed away, as she began to breathe more easily, and finally she sat upon the sand, gazing about her strange surroundings, eager to discover what she could attempt next. She had escaped from that hell under-ground, yet was but little better off than before. She was upon the edge of the desert stretching outward toward the Meager ranch. It would be impossible to cross this on foot, with neither food nor water to sustain her; nor could she for a moment contemplate seeking refuge there, even if it were possible. Her only hope was to effect that hidden chasm, and then endeavor to find her way north until she reached some human habitation. The hope of accomplishing this was the merest mirage; the attempt probably meant death. She had no horse, no food, yet somehow, in the exhilaration of that first moment of release, she could not wholly despair. God had been good; she would go on courageously, and trust Him.

She arose to her knees, and looked about. It was a lonely, contracted scene, amid which she was concealed. Some rift in the rocks led down to that opening through which she had just crept. Perhaps it had formed a watercourse in other ages, but now the sand of the desert had drifted in, and covered all with a yellow mantle of desolation. The sides were too steep to scale even on foot, the loose sand falling every attempt, so she was compelled to follow the course of the debris in seeking a way out. For the first few yards of advance the girl had no suspicion she was not alone. A batch of sagebrush limited her view, and she was threading her way through these, when the sound of a voice speaking caused her to crouch suddenly down in the midst of the thicket and lie motionless, scarcely daring to breathe. It was the voice itself which paralyzed her every voluntary, a voice instantly recognized, never to be forgotten—the voice of Bob Meager.

He was not dead; then; the blow struck had not quite stunned the man, and she was his wife. Deborah's fingers dug at the sand in sudden agony, as the hideous thought came home anew to her mind. In some mysterious way he must have discovered what had occurred, suspected that she and Kelleen had ridden away together, and then followed like an Indian on the trail. She lifted her head suddenly; another voice spoke quietly, indifferently. Surely the voice was familiar; it must have been Kelleen himself who spoke.

She crept forward inch by inch, crouching low behind the sage until she could see the figures of two men. Neither one faced her; Meager sat on the side of the bank, his horse grazing just beyond, while the "Frisco Kid" remained in the saddle, his mount still breathing heavily, as though he had only just arrived after a hard ride.

"Well, what difference does it make?" he asked quietly. "Am I in on this or not?"

"Of course you're in now," was the reply. "I reckon that was the only choice you've got in these parts, ain't it?" I wondered what way being pulled off when you ride in last night. Say, Kid, who really piled it on you?"

"The less you know about that the longer you live, Bob," Kelleen replied calmly. "It is enough that I do know, not only what you are up to, but how far that you are from safety."

LEGION TO FATHER ORPHANS

Problem, One of Biggest Facing Organization, Regarded as Continued Service to Nation.

Caring for orphaned children of World war veterans is regarded as one of the principal problems in the American Legion's plan of continued service to the nation. Estimates show that within eleven years after the close of the war, there will be at least 35,000 of such children, and the number is expected to increase so rapidly that it will entail as much expenditure as does the relief of disabled soldiers.

George A. Withers of Clay Center, Kansas, is chairman of the Legion's national committee on children's homes. Mr. Withers has given up his time during the past year to research and study of the conditions and methods used in the upbringing of veterans' dependents. The committee is composed of Mark T. McKee of Michigan, Charles French of New Hampshire, William B. Healey of Pennsylvania, G. A. Warlick of North Carolina, E. E. Halliebeck of Pennsylvania, Ralph K. Robertson of New York, and A. H. McKee of California. They have prepared an outline for the Legion's part in such a program to be submitted to the fifth annual convention of the organization at San Francisco.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Brought Relief When Other Medicines Failed

Winston-Salem, N. C.—"I was weak and run-down and had trouble with my side. I had been taking medicines for a long time and nothing seemed to do me any good. My husband went to the drug store and he said to the clerk, 'I want the best medicine you have for women's troubles.' He gave him a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it has helped me. In a short time I was able to do my housework, and now I am not only able to do every bit of that and washing and ironing, but I help my husband at the store and feel good all the time."—Mrs. L. K. Keene, N. H.—"I was weak and run-down and had backache with my side. I had been taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I am able to do my work and feel good all the time. I am doing all I can to advertise it."—Mrs. A. F. Hammons, 72 Carpenter Street, Keene, N. H.

A MAN WHO BECAME FAMOUS

Doctor R. V. Pierce, whose picture appears above, was not only a successful physician, but also a profound student of the medicinal qualities of Nature's remedies, roots and herbs, and by close observation of the methods used by the Indians, he discovered their great remedial qualities, especially for weaknesses of women, and after careful preparation succeeded in giving to the world a remedy which has been used by women with the best results for half a century. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is still in great demand, while many other so called "cure-alls" have come and gone. The reason for its phenomenal success is because of its absolute purity, and Dr. Pierce's high standing as an honored citizen of Buffalo is a guarantee of all that is claimed for the Favorite Prescription as a regulator for the ills peculiar to women.

Grandmother had come to visit her son, the pastor, and Mary, her five-year-old granddaughter, was entertain- ing her with the story of a wonder- ful dog.

Mary—And the dog flew and leaped and flew away up into the sky.

Grandmother (profoundly)—Now, Mary, tell it right; you know a dog can't fly.

Mary (triumphantly)—Oh, yes, grandmother, that dog could fly; it was a bird dog. Christian Evangelist.

NOVELTIES IN DAY DRESSES;

FOR SCHOOL OR BUSINESS

FASHION and fieldiness have been associated in our minds for so long that thinking of one suggests the other. But, for once in the history of dress, stylists complain, not of the fieldiness, but of the staidness of fashion. It seems that the straight-line dress and the cloche hat have outstayed their welcome, so far as creators of styles are concerned. But in spite of interesting substitutes of the might be used for the embroidered, pointed panel at the front of the other dress, and a similar decoration appears on the pockets, but in the sleeves the colored embroidery is unexpectedly omitted.

Prep school clothes and the clothes of the young lady who goes to college come in for a great deal of criticism from the older people if they do not conform strictly to what the older people consider proper and suitable for the age and occasion. Sometimes their criticisms are unfair and unreasonable, but more often they feel that Young Miss America has overstepped the bounds of good taste in dressing for the classroom.

A GUIDE FOR NEWSPAPER MEN.

An insight into our late president's character will be gained by reading his instructions to reporters and writers on the Marion "Star". They are as follows:

Remember there are two sides to every question. Get them both.

Be truthful. Get the facts.

Mistakes are inevitable, but strive for accuracy. I would rather have one story exactly right than a hundred half wrong. Be decent, be fair, be generous.

Boost—don't knock. There's good in everybody. Bring out the good and never needlessly hurt the feeling of anybody.

In reporting a political gathering give the facts, tell the story as it is, not as you would like to have it. Treat all parties alike. If there is any politics to be played, we will play it in our editorial columns. Treat all religious matters reverently.

If it can possibly be avoided, never bring ignominy to an innocent man or child in telling of the misdeeds or misfortunes of a relative.

Don't wait to be asked, but do it without the asking, and above all be clean and never let a dirty word or suggestive story get into type. I want this paper so conducted that it can go into any home without destroying the innocence of any child.

MOON LARGER WHEN FARTH-EST FROM U.S.

Usually the nearer an object to a person the larger it is but at times the moon is an exception. When the moon is farthest from us, it appears larger. For instance, along about the 24th of September, anytime between six and eight o'clock in the evening look at the moon rising in the east. If conditions are right, the moon will appear larger at that time than it will about midnight, same date. And yet at this latter time the moon is several thousand miles nearer us than when it rises because of the curvature of the earth and the angle at which one looks at it.

The cause of the change in the size in so few hours is the result of the atmosphere. When we see the moon rising, we view it through the earth's atmospheric shell at an angle and when moisture content is just right, greatly magnifies the moon.

As the luminary climbs higher, we view it at more right angles to the atmospheric layer, and there is less atmosphere with which to magnify.

This same principle applies to sun rise and set. —Pritchard's Weather Forecast.

ORDERS ISSUED FOR BUS LINES

SPEED LIMIT FIXED BY UTILITIES COMMISSION—ROAD RACING BARRED

THE REGULATIONS ARE STRICT

No More Than One Passenger May Be Carried on Seat With Driver—Minimum Fare Cited.

Lansing—Commercial trucks and busses operating under the public utility commission's jurisdiction will not be permitted to travel at a speed exceeding 30 miles an hour, according to an order issued by the commission Monday.

The reduction in speed is made in the interest of safety both to passengers and other traffic on the highways. Numerous complaints of excessive speed at which trucks and busses have been operated have reached the offices of the commission.

Another new regulation also of a safety nature is that forbidding busses to carry more than one passenger on the driver's seat.

Parts of the order follow:

"No common carrier motor vehicle shall be operated by any person whose sight is defective, or by any person that has not full use of both arms and both legs and feet, or by any person that has been convicted within one year of drunkenness or of driving while intoxicated."

"No common carrier motor vehicle shall operate at any time at a speed greater than 30 miles an hour."

"Motor vehicles carrying passengers shall not carry more than one passenger in the front seat unless the driver's seat of such vehicle shall be separated from the front seat of such vehicle, except in cases where the front seat of such vehicle is 54 inches wide, two passengers may be carried in such seat and where the front seat is wider than 54 inches, an additional passenger may be carried for each additional 18 inches of width."

"Where a minimum fare is established, such minimum fare shall not in any case be in excess of 10 cents."

"At no time shall any vehicle used as a common carrier be used to carry passengers in any race upon the public highway."

"No applicant to whom a permit has been issued under this act shall at any time carry property to a value greater than the amount covered by his insurance filed with this commission, nor persons in a number greater than the number insured under his insurance, proof of which is filed with this commission."

WARNS U. S. OF AIR PERILS

Ten Year Building Program Urged By Asst. War Secretary.

St. Louis—A ten-year program of building aeroplanes to meet the deficit in machines needed for training and defensive purposes, was advocated in an address here by Dwight F. Davis, assistant secretary of war.

There is almost no truancy in the schools of the county, due to a large extent, to the activities of Al Cripps, county truant officer. He promptly looks after every reported absence and finds out why they are not in school, and it has to be a good excuse that gets a boy or girl excused from attending school.

Two automobile accidents were reported Saturday night, one on the road between Roscommon and Grayling and the other on the Interurban road. Although all cars were badly damaged none of the occupants were very severely injured other than receiving cuts from broken windows and being bruised up a little.

Charles Damoth of Frederic is in Mercy hospital, having been injured by cutting a knee with an ax while working in the lumber camp. At the same time that he was being operated on in the hospital, his wife was also awaiting an operation for gall stones. Both are slowly improving.

There is almost no truancy in the schools of the county, due to a large extent, to the activities of Al Cripps, county truant officer. He promptly looks after every reported absence and finds out why they are not in school, and it has to be a good excuse that gets a boy or girl excused from attending school.

Outlining the tremendous destructive and offensive powers of the aeroplane, Mr. Davis said the United States was doing "pitifully little" to safeguard itself.

"We have reduced our army air service," he said; "below the safety point for national defense until its actual strength today is only 915 officers and about 8,600 men."

"We have failed to provide even this meager force with adequate equipment for training, much less for combat needs."

He urged the need for a large increase in the number of planes.

Specifying the need for a large increase in the number of planes, he said: "I am afraid that we are showing the same apathyness, the same failure to appreciate the necessity for preparedness."

Many a gloomy countenance in Grayling now lightens with happiness.

A bad back makes you gloomy; Can't be happy with continual backache.

The ache and pains of a bad back are frequently due to weak kidneys.

Doan's Kidney Pills are recommended for weak kidneys.

Mrs. Peter E. Jorgenson, Grayling, says: "My back ached all the time and it was hard for me to do my housework. When I did the least, bit of work, sharp pains darted through my back and I suffered a great deal with lame back. I was tired, nervous and all run down and worried so much I became depressed and irritable. I had dizzy headaches and black specks passed before my eyes. My kidneys were weak and irregular in action and I couldn't sleep well at night. I heard of Doan's Kidney Pills and purchased several boxes at Lewis' Drug Store and they cured me in a splendid way."

TAX DECREASE HELD CERTAIN

Lightening of Levy to Result From Estimated Surplus.

Washington—The government's ledger will show a surplus of $400,000,000 this fiscal year as a result of a steadily increasing income and the administration's economy progress, officials estimated Monday. This figure is double that of previous surpluses estimated and practically assures a reduction of federal taxes by the next congress.

What form tax reduction will take is not yet officially known. Treasury department experts are studying the question, but have not yet submitted their conclusions to Secretary Mellon.

Strong pressure will be exerted in both house and senate for lowering the rates on moderate incomes. Advocates of this plan are gaining new support, and indications are that, unless this is done, they will oppose efforts of the administration to reduce surtax rates on large incomes.

Soldiers' bonus supporters are heartened by the certain prospect of a big treasury surplus, as they figure it will stimulate the campaign both for a bonus and tax reduction. Bonus supporters do not anticipate that the tax reduction program will militate against them.

Several ladies and gentlemen very pleasantly surprised Mrs. George Collens Saturday evening when they went to her home unexpectedly on her birthday. Delicious refreshments were served.

Rev. Kjolhede will leave the latter part of the week for Muskegon to accept an invitation to take part in the fiftieth anniversary celebration of the organization of the Danish-Lutheran church of that place, of which he was a former pastor. The church was organized in 1873 by a Mr. Dan of Chicago who will also be present at the celebration and be one of the main speakers. There will be no services in the local church next Sunday.

A number of ladies pleasantly surprised Mrs. Efne Matson at her home Thursday evening, the occasion being her birthday anniversary. The ladies played "500" during the evening. Mrs. Ambrose McClain receiving first prize and Mrs. Max Landsberg second. A two course lunch was served by the Misses Anna Peterson, Agnes Havens and Vera Matson. Mrs. Matson was presented with a cut glass dish.

Miss Helene Strange of Denmark, arrived last Thursday from Manistee and will remain in Grayling, for a couple of weeks a guest in the home Mr. and Mrs. Peter Rasmussen. Miss Strange visited Grayling eleven years ago, and since has travelled through Germany, Austria, Italy, France, Belgium and Holland, and now has come to the United States to visit Danish communities and give lectures of her travels in these various countries. She also shows stereopticon views with which to illustrate her talks. Last Sunday evening she gave a lecture at Danchad hall which was well attended and this evening will talk again and show stereopticon views. Miss Strange will remain in America about a year, expecting to spend the winter in California. Many of the local Danish families came from the same part of Denmark as Miss Strange's home and her visit here is doubly interesting to them. The young woman also writes books of romance.

Mr. and Mrs. Hans Petersen and Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Havens enjoyed a motor trip to Johannesburg Sunday. They spent the day with Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Larson and family.

Michigan Happenings

A number of short term prisoners who have been employed on state work have been granted their freedom. The prisoners, according to the governor, like the work like the way they have been treated and are doing more work than free labor. Several of them have asked that they be allowed to work at regular day wages after their term expires. They have been paid at the rate of $1.25 a day. Most of them spent practically their entire pay for smokes and delicacies. Now they want a chance to earn a stake, at higher wages.

Fred H. Harris, city manager of Escanaba, was elected president of the League of Michigan Municipalities at the League's annual convention at Grand Rapids. Manistee County Pig and Calf Club boys have done exceptionally well in stock judging this year, both at the State Fair and the West Michigan Fair. The team took seventh place at the former and second at the latter. At Grand Rapids Ward Mallison won a trip to the Chicago Livestock Exposition, the second highest individual place, while Russell McCarthy made the highest individual score, only to be counted out because he won a similar contest in the District fair last year.

He has served the Episcopal Diocese of Western Michigan steadily for the past 35 years, having been secretary 12 years and deputy to the general conference for seven terms.

Forty deeds covering land in Dundee and Summerfield townships, Monroe county, were received at the office of the Monroe county registrar of deeds, from Henry Ford, of Detroit. The deeds cover land purchased recently by the automobile magnate for a new right of way for the Detroit-Toledo and Ironton railroad. It is understood that the new right of way will make possible the shortening of the road to a considerable extent.

Dean C. B. Williams of Kalamazoo College was last seen alive Aug. 21 at the Grand Hotel, in Yokohama, and is believed to have perished with his wife in the disaster which overwhelmed the Japanese steamer the next day, according to a report received by the family here. NEWS REVIEW OF CURRENT EVENTS

Governor Walton Wins a Bloodless Victory Over Oklahoma Legislators.

TROOPS PREVENT SESSION

Germany Surrendering in the Ruhr; Bavaria Revolts and Establishes Dictatorship; War Minister Gessler Made Dictator of Entire Country to Meet Crisis.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

"CROMWELL" WALTON and his troops won a bloodless victory over the legislators of Oklahoma who wanted to assemble in special session for the purpose of investigating what they term the mistakes and illegal actions of the governor. Sixty two members of the lower house attempted to convene in the state capitol Wednesday, and were driven out by the military. They offered no resistance, but at once prepared a petition to the Supreme court for a restraining order prohibiting Adjutant General Matzbaum from interfering with the sessions of the legislature. They contended that they already were legally in session. Asked whether he would prohibit such action by the Supreme court,

Governor Walton said that would depend on the advice of his lawyers, who were number fourteen. He added that there was no way by which the governor or legislature could be removed except by appeal of citizens to federal courts or to congress.

On Thursday the governor extended absolute martial law over Murray county, some of whose citizens had asked for protection from the Ku Klux Klan. He said martial law in the state would continue "until the Klan and newspapers get off my back and give me a chance to clean up the country and the country from such infiction."

There wasn't a ghost of a show for the crowd legislative. They signed the bill for the session and filed it with the secretary of state, and then proceeded to end the legislative session.

There in front of the doors was a line of National Guardsmen through whom they could not penetrate. As soon as a quorum, C. S. Price, speaker of the house, directed the clerk to call the roll in the lobby. Immediately Colonel

Key, in command of the troops, read

Adjutant-General Markham's order directing the members to disperse, and told the soldiers to stand them mox-ing and keep them moving until they were outside the capitol. The legislative later tried to meet in a hotel for a conference and found it guarded by gunmen who the governor admitted, were on the state pay roll and working for him.

Campbell Russell, a former state officer, was arrested for circulating a cartoon depicting Walton as a dictator and newspaper photographers who tried to get pictures of the scenes in the capitol also were taken into custody.

It must not be supposed that Walton and his immediate supporters are alone in their fight against the "Invisible Empire" in Oklahoma. When the governor called on the people of the state to be ready to join the militia if they were needed to enforce his orders, it was said 35,000 men volunteered for service. Most of the newspapers are against him because of what they consider his unwarranted assumption of dictatorial powers. So far the national government has taken no part in the fight, merely sending the warning that federal buildings could be used only for federal business.

GERMANY surrendered again last week, and thereupon two more dictatorships sprang up. Having received the assurance of support from the premiers of all the German states,

President Ebert and Chancellor Stroem-mann announced that passive resistance in the Ruhr and the Rhineland was officially abandoned. First re-enson was the friend of the mission

Now that he is dead the Samoans as-ing the circumstances of the French and Belgian occupation, the proclamation of surrender continued:

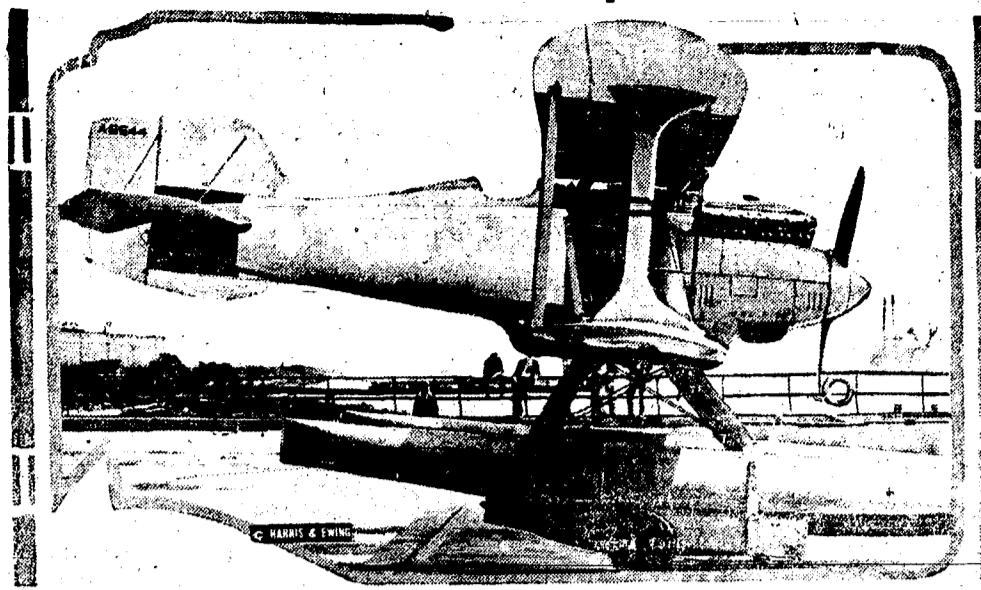

"The former production of the Ruhr and the Rhineland ceased and the economic life in occupied and unoccupied Germany became disorganized. It is most seriously to be feared that should the same line of action as hitherto be proceeded with, the creation of a regular currency, the maintenance of economic life, and existence itself would be impossible for our people in the interest of Germany's future, as in that of the Rhineland and the Ruhr, this danger must be removed. In order to preserve the life of the people and the state we are

One hundred and sixteen paintings by famous old masters were recently sold in London at Christie's auction rooms for $638,173. They belonged to Sir Joseph Robinson, the South African magnate. He bought them all back himself—except eighteen. When he ordered the treasures to be sold he had not seen them for years, but when they were taken out of storage he fell in love with them again and tried to get Christie's to cancel the sale. He failed and had to buy them in himself. Some had increased greatly in price.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale
MARY GRAHAM BONNER
Copyright by Western Newspaper UnionTHE OSTRICH PAIR

Bilie Brownie's call this day was to be upon the Ostrich pair at the so.

Bilie Brownie was always much amused by Mr. and Mrs. Ostrich.

He thought their ways were interesting and he always liked to hear about them.

Then, too, he always liked to tell everyone he could that ostrich feathers meant unhappiness and tragedy in the lives of birds.

The ostrich family wouldn't hurt when their feathers were taken from them, not at all; in fact it made them pleased and comfortable.

But this time that he went to see Mr. and Mrs. Ostrich he could see from the moment of his arrival that they were each in a funny frame of mind and Bilie knew he would enjoy himself.

"We haven't large brains," said Mr. Ostrich, "but we have a fine system for all that."

"Tell me about it," urged Bilie Brownie.

"Our brains are small in size," said Mrs. Ostrich, "and my mate is quite correct when he says what he does. But we have enough brains for our purpose."

"If we had more brains we'd have to study and keep our brains up to the mark."

"That would be a misnomer. Thankful I am that our brains are no more trouble to us than they are."

"To some, it would appear, brains are a great bother."

"Yes, our system is fine. Mr. Ostrich was right about that."

"We take turns in taching the eggs. I sit upon them in the daytime for my gray costume looks like the sand in the daylight and so protects me," Mrs. Ostrich explained.

"A good idea," said Bilie Brownie.

"And I sit at night and watch out for them then as I wear a black feathered suit which looks like the night," said Mr. Ostrich.

"That does sound like a perfect system," agreed Bilie Brownie.

"Neither of us are cowardly when it comes to protecting our young," Mr. Ostrich continued.

"I will hurry the broad away while Mrs. Ostrich will face the enemy and fall down as though there were no more life in her and so it makes the enemy feel it is useless to do anything."

"We have good eyesight. Our hearing is our next best sense and something comes that. We really only use the sense in feeding and in recognizing our young."

"Some say it is a strange way of knowing one's children, but then it does for us so why should we overtax our brains and think of other ways?"

"It would be foolish," said Mrs. Ostrich. "But I hope in time people will stop saying I hide my head in the sand when I'm frightened."

"I fell down and my hand quite close to the sand, but I don't hide. People have thought it was hidden because by head and the sand are so much alike in color."

"And the story has been passed along. And gossip has kept it going."

"I may have a small brain, but I know enough to know that my body isn't safe just because my head might be hidden—and so I don't hide my head."

"Oh, well, I'm above getting mad even if I'm gossiped about."

"That is very wise of you," said Bilie Brownie, "for I must admit that while I know it is foolish, I feel a little hurt at anything said about me that is not kind."

"You are far more sensible, Mrs. Ostrich."

"But I've been delighted to have heard your stories and to have had the honor and pleasure of this talk."

"How very handsomely you make your departure," said Mr. Ostrich, as Bilie Brownie made a low bow upon finishing his speech.

And Mrs. Ostrich added,

"You show a fine and respectful manner toward the happy Ostrich pair."

"It makes our ostrich hearts rejoice!"

The Problem of the Pencils.

Here is a little arithmetic problem. It has puzzled lots of folks. Can you do it?

A girl has 20 cents with which she is to buy 20 pencils. The pencils are of three prices; one-quarter cent each, one-half cent each, and four cents each. How many of each will she get for her even 20 cents?

Moving Your Coal

The 24 steam railroads operating in Michigan are already well advanced in their yearly task of bringing in the coal that will keep Michigan warm and working through the winter.

We are better prepared for this job than ever before.

Our repair shops contain only current work; there is no accumulation of crippled rolling stock. Our construction operations have been purposely pushed to release all equipment for this emergency. For four months we have been accumulating our own coal supplies until they are now at their highest point in history—79% of our entire storage requirements filled.

Best of all, we are swinging into use the record-breaking addition of 175 new locomotives, and 21,344 new freight cars, all bought during 1923. More improvements and additions are planned if you will back us by giving your support.

From the gateways, and the junction points, where we receive your coal, we are promptly carrying it on to you. Unload promptly and release our car for us to use in serving your neighbor's needs.

Are we doing this job as you want it done? We ask your criticism or approval.

LIVESTOCK LEGUMES LIMESTONE MEAN PROFITS IN FARMING

Beauty.

Why not, as we struggle to live, take time to appreciate more of the wonderful beauty in nature around us.

What a pity to go to the fields these days, or, for the past two weeks, without pausing to drink in the wonderful beauty of the colored leaves.

Pause, brother; let us forget our tasks for a moment, while the eye lingers longingly on the gorgeous display of green and gold, barbaric crimson and rich yellow.

What painter can duplicate it?

Here, God has spread a panorama of color that man cannot duplicate.

Pause and enjoy its. Pause and marvel over it. Let's talk about it at home.

Let's resolve to let more beauty enter our lives and our minds, and our conversation, and our deeds, and to exclude more that is evil and cheap and sordid and unworthy of us.

October is a wonderful month in the north, with its beautiful scenes and its mellow Indian summer days.

Our American poet, Helen Hunt

Jackson, has said some beautiful things about October's bright blue weather, in the following poem:

O sun and skies and clouds of June,
Count all your boasts together,

Love loveliest best of all the year—
October's bright blue weather.

When loud the bumble-bee hastes,

Beeated, thrifftless, vagrant,

And goldenrod is dying fast;

And lanes with grapes are fragrant.

When gentians roll their fringes tight,

To give them for the morning;

And chestnuts fall from satin burs,

Without a sound of warning;

When on the ground red apples lie,

In piles like jewels shining;

And redder still on old stone walls,

When the frost comes.

Let's resolve to let more beauty enter our lives and our minds, and our conversation, and our deeds, and to exclude more that is evil and cheap and sordid and unworthy of us.

October is a wonderful month in the north, with its beautiful scenes and its mellow Indian summer days.

Are leaves of woodbine twining;
When all the lovely wayside things—
Their white-winged seeds are sowing,
And in the fields, still green and fair,
Late afternoons are growing;
When springs run low, and on the brooks.

In idle golden freighting,
Bright leaves sink noiseless in the hush
Of woods, for winter waiting;

O sun and skies and flowers of June,

DO YOU WANT TO SELL YOUR FARM?

If so, one of the best ways to catch a buyer will be to have the farm look neat, thrifty and attractive. The better the place is fixed up; the more trees, flowers, shrubs, lawn and neat buildings you display, the quicker a buyer will come.

A buyer that is much of a fellow is not going to give much for a lot of unpainted, untidy shanties, set in an untidy door yard, with a nasty barn yard showing plainly to the road and to the house.

That's no way to attract customers. We all will sell quicker if we have an attractive place to sell.

PLANT THEM THIS MONTH.

This is the month in which to plant tulip, crocus, narcissus, hyacinth and daffodils for those early flowers next spring.

THE CITY OF IT.

Drive all day in Crawford County, and how many farm homes will you see where there has been much done for beauty or attractiveness?

How many places will you find where the man has graded and seeded the door yard?

How many places where good shrubs and trees have been set in well-chosen places and protected from cows?

How many places where the husband has cooperated with the wife in the love for beauty that every woman feels, and has helped her have clumps, beds, and borders of flowers?

Not many, when it would be so easy and we could find time for it, too, if we wished.

Farmers do this, and some of them are as poor as can be. These little touches do not call for wealth or leisure. They are in the reach of every aspiring man and woman.

HOW IT AFFECTS THE CHILDREN.

How can children be expected to cling fondly to memories of home, when it is so devoid of what attracts? What father and mother wants children to say, in after years, "Our place was only a place to work and to lodgings. There wasn't much there."

We parents are forming the tastes and future habits of our children right now.

Brought up to have books, papers, flowers, neatness, order, and high class farm practices, they are going to have such when they establish homes.

A farmer's chief concern should not be how fat the hogs can be made by killing time; but, how refined and well prepared his sons and daughters can be sent into the world.

Camphor & Hydrastis Fine For Sore Eyes

It is surprising how QUICK eye inflammation is helped by camphor, hydrastis, witchhazel, etc., as mixed in Lavoptik eye wash. One lady whose eyes were weak and watery for three years was helped AT ONCE. Another case of red, inflamed eyes was also benefited. One small bottle Lavoptik usually helps ANY CASE—sore, weak or inflamed eyes. Aluminum eye cup FREE. A. M. Lewis, druggist.—Advertisement.

WILL HOUSE PRICE-LESS RELICS OF WASHINGTON

Masonic Memorial Will Keep Heirloom Safe For All Time.

STRUCTURE TO COST MILLIONS.

Cornerstone to be Laid at Alexandria, Va., Nov. 1, Many Thousand Masons As Spectators.

The George Washington Masonic National Memorial, now being erected at Alexandria, Va., will house the priceless relics of the first president in possession of Washington-Alexandria Blue Lodge, No. 22, of which General Washington was the first Worshipful Master. These relics include the old clock that was in the bed chamber of the president on the night of his death and last used by him; a boot strap or garter worn by him the day of Braddock's defeat; a button cut from the general's coat at his first inauguration, a piece of canvas from his army tent used during the Revolutionary war; and many other sealing wax taken from his desk after his death and last used by him; a boot strap or garter worn by him the day of Braddock's defeat; a button cut from the general's coat at his first inauguration, a piece of canvas from his army tent used during the Revolutionary war; and many other seals and documents.

All these relics are to be housed in the George Washington Masonic National Memorial, where they will be saved forever against destruction by fire and against theft. A few of the Washington articles were lost, in a fire which burned down the old home of Alexandria Lodge, and American Masons as a whole have resolved that never again shall it be possible for the elements to destroy any that remain.

The memorial will be the center and rallying point of the members of the order. It will be a noble memorial to a noble man and Mason, to him who richly deserved to be called "the father of his country", and who in his every day life, in his every public act exemplified the lofty patriotism of the Masonic order.

To the Honorable Board of Supervisors of the County of Wexford, Michigan.

Gentlemen:

Your petitioner, the Consumers Power Company, a corporation authorized to do business in the State of Michigan, with its principal office in the City of Jackson, Michigan, represents unto your honorable body as follows:

That on October 24, 1913, a permit was granted the Western Michigan Power Company to construct certain dams on the Manistee River in Wexford County, at the locations and of the heights specified in said permit.

That such rights now vest in your petitioner by proper assignment.

That in said permit, under the head of "locations" is listed and Yuma Dam, and the location is given as the Northwest Quarter (NW^{1/4}) of the Southwest Quarter (SW^{1/4}) and the Southwest Quarter (SW^{1/4}) of the Northwest Quarter (NW^{1/4}) of Section Twenty-one (21), Township Twenty-three (23) North, Range Twelve (12) West. That it is found to be more advantageous to construct the Yuma Dam on the West Half (W^{1/2}) of the Northwest Quarter (NW^{1/4}) of Section Thirty (30), Township Twenty-three (23) North, Range Twelve (12) West.

That in said permit, under the head of "height," the Yuma Dam is given as not exceeding thirty (30) feet.

That in case the location of said dam is changed, it is desirable to change the height to not exceeding seventy-five (75) feet, and also to change the name to "County Line Dam."

Your petitioner therefore prays that said permit be amended as follows:

Under the heading of "Locations" the following language be struck out:

"YUMA DAM: On the NORTH WEST QUARTER (NW^{1/4}) of the SOUTH WEST QUARTER (SW^{1/4}) and the SOUTH WEST QUARTER (SW^{1/4}) of the NORTH WEST QUARTER (NW^{1/4}) of Section THIRTY (30), Township TWENTY-THREE (23) North, Range TWELVE (12) West."

That under the heading of "County Line Dam," the following language be struck out:

"COUNTY LINE DAM, SEVEN-EN-TRY-FIVE (75) feet."

That in other particulars, said permit shall remain in full force and effect.
